U. S. EXCELS IN USE OF GAS.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Allies now excel the Germans in gas warfare, Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry told the Senate Agricultural Committee today. They not only had more gas at their disposal and are applying it more effectively than the Germans, he said, but in defensive warfare they have more improved gas masks.

LONDON, June 13.—The military correspondent of the ritish wireless service wires from the front that yesterday was day of successes for the Allies. In the actual battle area the rench by a counter attack between Mery and Antheuil drove the nemy back nearly two miles on a front of five miles, causing m further losses and capturing 1,000 prisoners.

Immediately south of Noyon the French evacuated the salit around Carlepont in order that they might move of their wn accord to rectify their line. They administered a rebuff to e enemy who attempted to advance and drove him back to the gh ground near the Oise river.

South of the Ourcq river and northwest of Chateau Thierry e American troops have carried out a successful operation king Bealleau wood with over 300 prisoners.

TO WITHDRAW TROOPS FROM EAST.

LONDON. June 13.—Germany is about to withdraw the bulk her troops now in Russia for service on the western front according to a statement in Maxim Gorky's newspaper, the Petroad Novaia Zhizn, quoted by the Daily News correspondent at ockholm.

The Novaia Zhizn claims to give the text of a dispatch sent General Falkenhayn, former chief of the German general aff, which it says was intercepted, in which General Falkenyn declared that the battles on the western front are critical d decisive, but that in order to insure definite victory and the d of the war the concentration of enormous forces will be cessary.

FRENCH STRIKE HARD ON MATZ.

PARIS, June 13.—French troops last night struck a heavy ow against the German forces which have been advancing on e eastern wing of the new front of the attack. The war office nounced today that the French hurled back the enemy to the rth bank of the Matz river.

Violent combats continue between the Aisne river and the llers-Cotterets forest. The Germans have progressed as far the ravine east of Labersine, north of Cutry.

The Germans last night made a violent attack on the erican sector between Bouresches and Belleau wood on the rne front. The Americans broke up the attack and inflictserious losses on the enemy, holding all the gains which they ve made.

After violent fighting the enemy has obtained a foothold Coeuvres and St. Pierre-Hargle.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS IN FLANDERS.

LONDON, June 13.—British troops last night advanced ir lines a short distance on the Flanders front in the district theast of Merris, the war office announced today. The ench on this front likewise improved their positions near the ge woods. Prisoners were taken in both operations.

BOY SCOUTS START SALE OF TICKETS FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Aim is to Dispose of Thousand Before Opening Entertainment.

OUTLOOK IS EXCELLENT

Experience of Other Towns Is That War Has Not Detracted a Whit From Attendance; Entertainers Here Several Days in Advance Rehearsing

Tackling the job with the vim which has characterized their every effort the Boy Scouts of Connellsville today started the sale of tickets for the chautauqua which opens Thursday, June 20, and continues for seven days. The aim is the sale of not less than 1,000 tickets in advance of the opening of the series of entertainments. J. Frank Eaton, advance representative of the Redpath bureau, arrived in the city yesterday and took up with Scout Commissioner A. O. Stone the matter of the ticket sale. He will remain until the chautauqua begins.

Prospects are that Connellsville this year will have the best entertainment it has had since the chautauqua was introduced here several years ago. One reason for this is that this is the opening town of the circuit, and the entertainers will do their best here, depending on the record made here for increased patronage at other places. Because of opening here many of the entertainers will be in Connellsville in advance of the opening, rehearsing. Kryl's band will be among them. The advance agent stated the bandsmen will probably be here for several days. Private Arthur Herman, war lecturer, will spend a week here in advance.

Experience has shown that the war has not detracted from attendance at the chautauquas. In the south the advance sales were larger than ever before, the advance agent declares. It is hoped that in Connellsville there will be a like response on the part of the public. Despite the general advance in the cost of everything else tickets for the week's entertainment

PROUD HE'S IN SERVICE

But Vanderbilt Boy, on Mothers' Day, Longs for Home and Mother.

"I am proud to be serving my country," says a letter from Allen Edwards of Vanderbilt, to his mother, Mrs. Frank Edwards, written on Mothers' Day. Allen is a member of the 20th Regiment, Forestry Engineers, and is wearing a service stripe denoting six months in foreign service. His letter reads:

"In these times of war, when all mothers pray for the safety of their sons and the end of Prussianism, there comes the one day when we lay aside all war matters and turn our thoughts toward mother. We review our youthful past and every incident of mother reflects on our memory. Mother reigns in our hearts with all the appreciation of home. 'What is home without a mother?' I am proud to be serving my country for so great a cause, the fight for safety and welfare of all American people. I can assure you that I am in the best of health and am praying for the end to come, that I may return to you soon. Be not dismayed, whate'er betide, God will take care of me."

THIS IS A REAL WAR SAYS BARNHART

JOE CHIRCOSTA DEAD

Former Local Photographer Expires in Native Land.

Nunziato Condelli of North Pittsburg street, yesterday received a letter from a friend in Italy telling of the death of Joseph Chircosta, a former Connellsville photographer, and since the war an officer in the Italian Royal Carabinieres. He died May 19 at his old home, presumably from the effects of an operation.

Two brothers, Jerome of Cleveland, and Frank, who is thought to be with the American army somewhere in France, survive.

Joseph Chircosta was at one time connected with his brothers in the photographic business here. He was an Italian reservist, and when he was called to the colors three years ago, sailed for his native country. It is understood here that he was on the front fighting against Austria when he became ill.

CAPTAIN ROBERT S. MORTON IS FOUND DEAD AT SUMMIT HOTEL

Captain Robert S. Morton, former commander of Company D, was found dead shortly after noon today at his room at the Summit Hotel, where he had gone to recuperate, just a few days ago. The discovery was made by an employe of the hotel who went to his room to learn why the captain had not come down to meals. Captain Morton had been unwell for months, it being his illness that necessitated his retirement from the service. He was a sufferer from diabetes.

Captain Morton's service with Company D, Tenth Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, began with his enlistment as a private seven years ago. He was promoted to the grades of corporal and sergeant and later elected second lieutenant and first lieutenant in succession. In the latter capacity he went with the company to the Mexican border in 1916. Upon the resignation of Captain J. C. Herwick he was promoted to the captaincy. In that capacity he had charge of Company D during its preparation for movement to Camp Hancock.

Captain Morton was a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Morton of this city. He was born in Pittsburg, but had lived the greater part of his life here. More than a year ago he was married to Miss Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Adeline Anderson. Mrs. Anderson and their daughter, Betty, survive. There survive also two sisters, Edith and Margaret, and one brother, Walter, all at home.

Shortly after the 110th, then the 10th regiment, was mobilized with the Pennsylvania Division of the National Guard at Camp Hancock, Captain Morton developed acute diabetes. He was gradually reduced in strength under the stress of the strenuous duties of the camp and was transferred to a Philadelphia hospital for treatment. He made progress toward recovery and later returned to Camp Hancock. Not being able to resume active command of Company D he was honorably discharged from the service and he returned home. After several weeks at Cambride Springs he came home slightly improved and returned to his employment in the Scottdale office of the H. C. Frick Coke company.

ELECTRIC STEEL PLANT TO RESUME UNDER LEASE TO THE JESSOP STEEL CO.

Will Pay Handsome Weekly Cash Rental for Use of Property; Negotiations for Sale Are in Progress.

Operations at the plant of the United States Electric Steel company are to be resumed shortly under a leasing arrangement made with the Jessop Steel company. Representatives of the lessees are now in charge of the plant and preparations are being made to have it in readiness for resumption as soon as materials and supplies, now being shipped, arrive.

The Jessop company, which operates a number of plants in different parts of the country producing high grades of tool and die steel, has some important government contracts. Part of the semi-finished materials to be used in these contracts will be made at the plant in the Herd bottom from raw stocks and with employes and capital furnished by the lessees.

The property has been in the custody of F. E. Markell of Connellsville, and A. C. Ellis and George L. Gadsby of Pittsburg, trustees in bankruptcy, since early in March. Under the lease negotiated with the trustees, the Jessop company will pay a very handsome weekly cash rental for the use of the plant. The lease contains a clause permitting the trustees to arrange for a sale of the property or otherwise safeguard the interests of stockholders and creditors.

Negotiations are now in progress with a group of Pittsburg capitalists which, if successfully carried through, as it is believed will be done, will result in the company's indebtedness being discharged and the stockholders protected against loss. In such case the plant may be taken over by interests abundantly able to finance and permanently operate it.

VINCE ACQUITTED

Unwritten Law Wins in Case of Franklin Township Slaying.

Domineck Vince who was on trial at the Uniontown court yesterday for the murder of John Longa, last January 19, at the Miller farm, Franklin township, was pronounced not guilty by the jury. The case went to the jury about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was returned at 8.50, a seven hour session.

The twelfth juror, John J. Buttermore of Connellsville, was chosen today to pass upon the guilt or innocence of Steve Clipper for the murder of Mike Radovich at Thompson No. 2 on May 27, 1917. Among the other jurors chosen were J. C. Smith, Everson; David Rissel, Dawson; W. K. Means, Vanderbilt; W. E. Kerr, Connellsville, and Benjamin Berg, Saltlick township.

TAKES FINE DAY TO APPRECIATE THE BEAUTY OF FRANCE

It is Then That One Has Soul-Filling Mind-Refreshing Thoughts.

SAYS MEMBER OF UNIT "L"

A "Movie" House That Would Cause Inspector Darr to Have a Convulsion; Farming Principal Outdoor Sport; War to Last 32 Years, "Dope"

IN FRANCE—I feel like telling you about the joys of life in the Advance Section, S. O. S., A. E. F., etc., France. Here on this glorious spring evening, following a day on which it did not rain a drop (it was Ascension not Descension Day), I feel like pounding out a note of appreciation to the Surgeon General, the Secretary of War and all others who had a hand in sending us here. Likewise I feel like praising the American Red Cross, from whom all dressings flow, and the rest of those who assist us in our work.

It is soul-filling and mind-refreshing, after a day of toil in an institution devoted to making new men out of the sick and maimed, the mule-mauled and measled, the palsied and pleurisied, to take a stroll out East Main street to the city limits breathing great breaths of the horizon blue atmosphere and wondering if it is true the Germans are going to come through here on their next drive. Far to the ——— (I haven't the least idea what direction it is) one can see ——— (I deleted this name myself because I didn't know it) and over yonder can be seen the summit of ——— (not knowing, I cannot say).

As one mounts to the top of the little hill that leads off the continuation of Smithfield street (all streets here have been rechristened according to their relation with Pittsburg thoroughfares) many carefully preserved manure piles are passed, with here and there a drug store at which such well known medicines as Bene-

BOYS DISAPPEAR

South Side Lads, Sons of H. E. Snyder, Wander From Their Home.

Eddie and Earl L. Snyder, nine and 11 year old sons of H. E. Snyder of East Cedar avenue, who disappeared from their homes on Tuesday have not yet been found. The father went to Cumberland last night in his search for the boys. The police are on the lookout for them and surrounding towns have been notified.

Earl, the elder of the boys is described as being tall, having red hair, a light complexion. The other boy is somewhat stouter, with a dark complexion and black hair. Both wore white waists, and light caps. They had no coats. They also had on black shoes and stockings. Mr. Snyder has offered a reward if any information of their whereabouts is communicated to him.

SUPT. MARTIN RESIGNS

Dunbar Furnace Official Takes Position in Tennessee.

W. P. Martin, for the past three years superintendent of the American Manganese company at Dunbar, has resigned his position and gone to Knoxville, Tenn., to accept the general managership of the Tennessee Manganese company of Tennessee, a mining and soon to be a producing plant of ferro-manganese.

A large plant is in course of construction and several blast furnaces for transporting the fields of rich manganese ore the company owns into ferro-manganese are planned. Mr. Martin is a stockholder in the company and a number of other Dunbar persons have an interest in the concern.

DR. M'GOWAN ARRESTED

Enmity Engendered by Anti-German Lectures Held Responsible.

Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, who is well known about Connellsville, was arrested yesterday at Johnstown and detained for five hours through the plotting, it is believed, of enemies embittered by the doctor's anti-German lectures. A fake message sent to the officers at Johnstown said he was an enemy agent and he was taken from a train by the officers and held until Judge W. H. S. Thomson and other prominent Pittsburgers demanded his release.

Dr. McGowan delivered the address to the graduating class of the Scottdale high school May 29.

DIVORCE OF WAR BRIDES

Held Up by Washington County Judge Until After the War.

Judge J. A. McIlvaine of Washington county has ruled that divorce actions brought by women whose husbands are in the military service will be suspended until the defendants leave the military service.

In handing down his decision Judge McIlvaine stated that all judgments against any person in the military or naval service will be suspended for the period of the war. The decision is based on a recent act of Congress.

DOGS CHASE DEER

Canines in Indian Creek Valley Running Animals at Night.

Reports from Indian Creek valley are that dogs are playing havoc with the deer which were liberated there several years ago. Hiram Connor, night watchman at the McFarland Lumber company mills, saw one chased by three dogs.

The animal was about exhausted when it crossed Indian creek enroute for Tate's hollow. On account of the darkness Connor could not get a shot at the dogs.

Steamer Goes Ashore.

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT, June 13.—The American steamship Alcore, 3,500 tons, Captain Becker, formerly a Dutch steamer, bound from a New England port for a trans-Atlantic port, went ashore at a point on the southern coast of Nova Scotia in a thick fog last night, and is now breaking up, according to word received by the marine and fisheries department today.

Carrying Out Instructions Police Are Enrolling All.

MUST LABOR OR FIGHT

Roll Will Be Ready For Marshal General Crowder By July 1.

NEGROES ARE INCLUDED

Several Without Visible Means of Support Will Be Absent From Their Usual Haunts, the Officers Believe; Will Eliminate All the Loafers.

Lists of unemployed men and undesirables in the city who will either have to work or fight under the ruling of provost marshal general, including men between the ages of 18 to 50, are being compiled by the police. Under instructions of Mayor John Duggan the officers will note every man who is known to be a loafer or one who does not have any useful occupation.

It is a fact that some men known to be "gentlemen of leisure" are on the list. The mayor has named some that he knows to be of the "leisure" class, and has directed Chief Bowers to see that their names are placed on the list.

A well known West Side man, who does not have any known occupation, will be placed on the list. Chief Bowers this morning was given orders to see that his full names and address were noted.

Through this method of registration of loafers by the police it is expected that a complete list will be ready to turn in to the provost marshal after the first of July. The police here will then follow out the instructions which may be given by the government.

A number of names listed are those of negroes, among them three who are known especially as being "worthless." The negroes, to the knowledge of the police, have no occupation of any kind, being of the class who seem to live without working. It is persons of such habits that the government especially wishes to make use of.

If an able bodied man is able to work at a useful occupation and does not, he will be liable to draft into the army under the new ruling.

NO CELEBRATION HERE

Flags Will Be Given Prominent Display in City Tomorrow, However.

There will be no general celebration of Flag Day in Connellsville tomorrow. No program for a procession or speaking has been made up here, but flags will be prominently displayed. Old Glory will fly from hundreds of homes in the city tomorrow as a manifestation of the war spirit which pervades the region.

"The Pageant of Liberty," a patriotic play presented by the graduating class of the high school, will be presented at the auditorium tomorrow night. At 8.15 the doors of the school will be thrown open to the public.

At Uniontown arrangements have been made for a big parade, in which several thousands of persons are expected to participate.

Flag Day this year will probably be observed in more parts of the country than ever before. Old Glory has taken on a new significance since America has been in the war a year, and numerous patriotic demonstrations have been planned everywhere.

POLICE RECEPTION LARGE

Total of Forfeits and Fines for Four Days Is $415

Police court receipts were big again this morning a raid on a Water street gambling house netting $130. The two proprietors Mike Kavoc and John Cathes left forfeits of $50 each and three inmates George John Steve Koles and Mike Byouk each left a $10 forfeit. Forfeits from other prisoners during the night increased the total to $140.50.

In the past four days the police court receipts have been $415. Receipts for the three days previous totaled $159.5. "The police department will be self-sustaining if the money making arrests continue. We might even be able to buy a patrol wagon soon" said Chief Bowers.

Arthur Hall Charged With Taking $14 From Restaurateur

Arthur Hall was arrested this morning by Constable Ginsburg on a charge of the theft of $14 from Peter Georgakes proprietor of the Coney Island restaurant. Hall came into the restaurant about 12:30 last night the proprietor says and told the story that he was without parents and money and wanted something to eat.

Hall was alone in the kitchen for a short time and searched the pockets of a garment left in the room by Georgakes. At a hearing before Alderman Fred Munk the boy pleaded guilty of the theft of $10 and said he spent it.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups" etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas H Fletcher.

COMBINE PATRIOTISM WITH PLEASURE BY PRESERVING

Making Jam Helps Uncle Sam

Now that preserving fruits and berries is entirely safe from the danger of waste in spoilage, it is the pleasant but no less patriotic duty of every housewife to put up all the jams, jellies and preserves she possibly can. This releases tons of valuable foodstuffs for our allies.

Why "safe," you ask? Because today the value of sterilization and Parowaxing is understood. Formerly housewives hesitated about preserving too much particularly if the "cold pack" method was used, for fear some of the good things would spoil in time. But today, with spick and span glasses and jars, sealed air-tight with clean, pure Parowax, that danger is removed. Even 'cold pack' preserves are completely protected against deterioration when the jar-tops are dipped in Parowax.

Parowax keeps out all deteriorating influences—air, dust, germs, everything. It keeps in all the goodness, flavor freshness. Your grocer sells and recommends Parowax.

December 27th, 1917.

Dear Sir

You are right when you say in yours of December 24th that Senreco is a remarkably good tooth paste and that it has a strong story to tell, but the difficulty lies in putting that story in such language as will convince the public.

The Senreco story of a medicinal paste that not only cleanses the teeth but also keeps mouth and gums healthy, when put on paper does not sound very different from the story of just any ordinary dentifrice.

For that reason we make every effort to get the people to try Senreco. After that Senreco tells its own story - and fully 90% of them are Senreco users and boosters from then on.

There is a Senreco user in Pittsburgh who has introduced our product into the families of thirty-four of his friends. Enthusiasm? No, not entirely. Simply a case of Senreco making good. It is just as stated above. If they will try Senreco - if they once become acquainted with a real dentifrice - with what a dentifrice can and should be - they are Senreco boosters from that time on.

Your druggist or toilet counters can supply you with Senreco. It comes in large, two ounce tubes and retails at 25¢.

Why not get a tube to-day? Try it. We stand behind every package of Senreco with a money-back guarantee.

Very truly yours,
SENRECO,
CINCINNATI.

FLAG DAY.

While no formal celebration has been arranged to commemorate tomorrow the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as our national emblem, we should not permit the day to pass without some form of recognition.

This year Flag Day has a new significance. For the first time in the history of our country the Flag is being carried by fighting Americans on the soil of Europe. For the first time men who have been born in many different countries or of parents of many nationalities are standing shoulder to shoulder in protection of the Flag in foreign lands.

"There are many thousands of many races in America," says P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, in calling attention of industrial plant managers and our school authorities to Flag Day, "who have those near and dear to them in our Army, and others who are working in American industrial plants to help win the war. They would welcome the opportunity to join older Americans in paying tribute to the Flag and in pledging loyalty to the great cause for which we are all fighting.

"Flag Day offers a splendid opportunity for all of the workers in our industrial plants to get together for a little ceremony of flag raising, with a simple program which will go far toward bringing about a better understanding of the war and the unity behind the war, and will also strengthen the right spirit needed to help win the war."

To hold a simple flag raising ceremony, as Commissioner Claxton suggests, will be quite as impressive as a more elaborate form of celebration. It can be arranged with little effort. Every industrial plant and school can have a celebration of its own that will produce a more abiding influence upon the minds of the people, especially the young, than a pretentious affair of which many persons would be more or less curious observers rather than interested participants.

In our homes and places of business there should be a generous display of the Flag and every remark of respect paid to the national ensign. We should allow the occasion to remind us that the same Flag that floats proudly over our own land has never been dishonored by any who have been called to its defense. Today it is leading our brave men to victorious assaults against, and nerving them to successfully resist the most determined attacks of a foe that boasts of its irresistible strength and power. Many fine, courageous lads are willingly shedding their blood and others are yielding up their young lives that no star in the Flag shall be dimmed; no stripe polluted.

As the meaning of their sacrifice is brought home to us we should make Flag Day a season for our own reconsecration to the cause to which our nation is committed; a day for still more completely concentrating our time, our strength, our skill, our energy, and our means to doing those things that will not only make it possible, but also make it easy and certain, that followers of the Flag on the soil of France will carry it to the most glorious, most overwhelming and most complete victory that has yet been won under its precious folds for the cause of human rights, liberties and freedom.

IF NOT IN, GET IN.

While present indications are that volunteer farm labor to be provided in Fayette county this season will be ample for the needs of the farmers, it should not be taken for granted that such will be the case. Many men have expressed their willingness to join in the important work of helping to increase the production of food stuffs, and to assist in its cultivation and harvesting, but this does not release others from making the same pledge so that there will be no shortage in the number required.

The organization of the available farm help of the county, and the Connellsville district in particular, has been well directed, but nowhere have all the business, professional, mechanics and other men of the towns been enlisted for the campaign. The farmers have no desire to be overwhelmed by a larger force than is absolutely necessary to do their work, but the danger that more men than are needed will be enrolled should not deter those who have not volunteered from making their willingness known. Even if the number of men available is found to be larger than is actually required, the forces can be so divided that the members will not be compelled to work as many days as would be the case if the number were smaller.

While the primary object is to furnish all the help the farmers need, the benefits to be derived from the coöperation between the town and the country people, is, after all, the big thing. The spirit of mutual interest and helpfulness, the desire to join hands in contributing to one of the most essential factors in making it possible for the victory over Prussianism to be decisive and complete, and accomplished within the shortest possible period of time, is the inspiration that as many men as possible should permit themselves to experience. In the Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives the ground work was laid for a more enduring community relationship. The people have had practical demonstration of the value and effectiveness of team work. They have learned to appraise their neighbors differently and have experienced, perhaps for the first in their lives, the expanding influences of wholeheartedly joining in doing things that help others while also helping themselves.

Needful as it is to help the farmer raise and harvest larger crops, we also need to continue and enlarge that spirit of getting together and keeping together and pulling together which has been so auspiciously begun. Every male citizen of Connellsville ought to be glad of the opportunity to share in this. If you have not joined the farm labor brigade, do so without delay, and get into this patriotic and neighborly movement.

A Mother's Letter

(From pamphlet distributed by the Y. M. C. A. to the soldiers in France on Mother's Day.)

My Dear Boy:—

Your father says to tell you that he will give his son to his country, but that he will be—(never mind that!)—if he will give all his new suspenders. He says that you pinched three pairs from the top drawer of his bureau—he says that he "is onto your curves." Nora says you were very wise to take them, and she would give you all hers, if she had any!

Betty says to tell you that she hears Jack Ellis sails next week. I know just how his mother will feel for those ten days while he is crossing. But she wouldn't have him stay at home any more than I would have had you! All the same, she won't have a good night's sleep until she hears he has landed.

I keep thinking what a different world it will be to mothers when you come marching home again. And when you do come marching home, old fellow, bring me back the same boy I gave my country—true, and clean and gentle and brave. You must do that for your father and me and Betty and Nora—and most of all for the daughter you will give to me one of these days! Dear, I don't know whether you have even met her yet but never mind that. Live for her, or, if God wills it, die for her; but do either with courage, "with honor and clean mirth."

But I know you will come back to me.

MOTHER.

The Hun soldiers having failed to exterminate the French army with shell fire, gas attacks, artillery fire and all the enginery of war, the German minister of war is now trying the usual method of applying smoke clouds of lies to blind the people at home to what the "Blue Devils" of France and the "Devil Hounds" of America are really doing on the western front.

The recruiting office for farm laborers is open every time you open your copy of The Courier. Fill out the blank.

The time is approaching when the "city farmer" will have to make good his pretensions to a knowledge of agriculture.

The Turk has shown himself an apt pupil of the Hun in the "kultured" art of removing innocent, helpless and inoffensive noncombatants.

Those who are disposed to question the fairness of the "fair" list of grocery prices may take some comfort in comparing it with the prices ruling in Germany, where coffee at $7 and $8 a pound and other articles in proportion, represents the Hun merchant's idea of "fairness."

The farmers of this section are understood to have supplied themselves with an equipment of hoes, forks and other tools fitted with a special type of air-cooled handles for the use of the "city volunteers."

Having taught their horses to eat ground wood and beet leaves, the next expedient of the German farmers will no doubt be to provide their easily camouflaged critters with green glasses to be worn while feasting on excelsior in lieu of hay.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason.

INDECISION.

I hired Pete Dill to slay a cat whose ways were full of error, it howled weird songs around my flat, and made the night a terror. I said, "exterminate the brute, and here's a silver quarter; I care not if you drown or shoot, or bray him in a mortar.' Next night the cat was still on deck, with songs of home and mother; it made my nerves so dire a wreck, I knew not which from t'other. I hunted up old Peter Dill, and said, "You are a quitter! Why don't you hump yourself and kill that cheap, misguided critter?" "I cannot quite make up my mind," he said, "how best to do it. I do not want to go it blind, and botch the job, beshrew it! To drown her where the billows roar I thought I would endeavor; but then perchance she'd swim ashore, and be as bad as ever. I thought I'd shoot her with a gun, but saw that was improper; the noise would startle every one, and maybe bring a copper. I thought I'd hang her to a tree, but that seems rather brutal; the plans which have occurred to me, so far, seem punk and futile." "It is no wonder, Peter Dill," I said, "that you are busted, the way you saw and back and fill, would make a man disgusted. Your pants are patched, before, behind, your coat is all in tatters, because you can't make up your mind upon the smallest matters. I'll give the job to William Wax, I'll pay him half a dollar, and he will take the nearest ax, and croak that midnight squaller."

dictine, Cognac and Vin pour Sucre are being served by obliging barkeepers. These drug stores have the same name as our pleasure palaces back home—Cafe—but what they sell tastes like poison and seems to have the same effect. At the top of the hill there appears a little mud hut, in the centre of a one-acre farm, which might have been the birthplace of Napoleon, though it very probably wasn't for the Little Corporal was born in Corsica.

Farther out we come to one of those French chateaus which I think must be the residence of one of the first families.

On Saturday I am planning a journey to ——— (deleted but not by the censor), which is only ——— kilometres from ——— (ditto) on the main road from ——— (also ditto) to ——— (ditto again), returning by way of ——— and ———, the principal villages of ———. This, you can readily understand is quite a long trip, especially so on foot.

You see we are allowed to go anywhere in France except Paris, so long as we have a pass, but we may not travel by railroad and we have no automobiles. It is nice to know, though, that we are free to go even if we can't. It would break up the morale of an army to forbid the men to go where they wanted to on leave.

One of the principal outdoor sports here is farming. The people are out every day and every family seems to have its little course which they plant and manicure with scrupulous care. Not an inch of the soil is wasted. Drinking and going to bed are the principal amusements though the Americans bring along some of their own brand of enjoyment in the shape of movies and band concerts. Tell Chris Wagner we have seen late 1917 Triangle pictures over here, some half a million miles from the factory, on two successive weeks and they sure did go big. Which reminds me to tell you about the Eden Cinema.

The Eden Cinema is on Fifth avenue and if Factory Inspector Darr ever saw it he would have a convulsion. It is about as big as Roy Hetzel's store only not so long nor so wide. The Fifth avenue entrance is through a narrow aisle, on one side of which is the booth and a little elevated section for reserved seats. It seats about 150 when the chairs in the aisles are occupied. A one-lung gasoline engine starts to chug in the back room after everybody gets there, the electric lights come on and Mademoiselle Operator begins to focus her machine. The projection is excellent and the Mlle. only takes about a half a minute to change reels. Sometimes another mademoiselle plays French music, without much tune, during the pictures but otherwise we can enjoy the show fine.

The latest dope I have is that the war is going to last 32 years. I have nothing to base this on except a conversation I had with a fellow who just came in, who had talked with several other fellows who had just talked it over with some soldiers back from the front.

I have learned some French, but as a language it is very impracticable. If I had a little time I could revise it and make it talkable, but in its present form it's altogether impossible. But this much I know, personality and good looks count for nothing if you can't speak the lingo.

Phosphorus Strengthens and Vitalizes Every Nerve and Organ of the Body

Says Doctor Who Prescribed Ordinary Phosphorated Malt for Weak Nervous Rundown Anaemic People

BOSTON Mass—Without phosphorus says Dr. Reid good health is impossible Phosphorus strengthens and vitalizes every nerve and organ of the body Without it even plants will not grow Nor phosphorus is a common need of both men and women but few people realize it Generally they believe that stomach trouble or kidney trouble or lack of iron in the blood is the cause when as a matter of fact all they need is a little more phosphorus to tone up the nervous system and give strength and vigor to the body When people come to me nervous and rundown and irritable and everything looks blue and it seems there is nothing but trouble everywhere I prescribe ordinary phosphorated malt which not only supplies the phosphorus but brings malt one of the best known tonic and tissue builders to the rescue of the wasting tissues I have seen it double endurance and mental activity in less than ten days time and in cases where nothing else had proven to be of real value I have seen it bring roses to the cheeks of pale nervous overworked women and the crimson flood of health and a smile of happiness to the faces of children recovering from illness of long duration Recently a patient came to me physically run down and on the verge of mental collapse He found no pleasure in life his daily work had become drudgery and he got no rest from his sports and holidays He could neither sleep nor keep his mind on his work His business was in such shape that he could not leave it and I doubt if it would have helped him anyway I advised him to eat less and take two five-grain tablets of phosphorated malt after each meal In less than ten days he walked into my office full of vim and vigor—his eyes bright his step firm and buoyant and his manner that of a man of twenty five though he was well over fifty.

Physicians everywhere know the value of phosphorus and almost every woman knows the tonic value of malt It is a remarkable tonic and tissue builder especially adapted to the needs of nursing mothers and weak anaemic women Combined with phosphorus and phosphates as in phosphorated malt it nourishes and fills the system to convert food into living tissues The old liquid forms of malt are not convenient to take and most of them contain alcohol which causes a needless stimulation always followed by dangerous and depressing reaction Phosphorated malt retains the tissue building properties of malt and escapes the evil effects of alcohol I have seen it produce such astonishing results that I prescribe it daily in my practice recommend it to my friends and take it myself After a few days of phosphorated malt you will awaken in the morning feeling refreshed and vigorous and rising ready to begin the day's work with redoubled confidence and energy.

NOTE—To find out what phosphorated malt will do for you Get a package and learn for yourself or ask [illegible] it or get the formula from your druggist it is printed plainly on every package then ask your doctor The manufacturers of phosphorated malt have such confidence in it that they guarantee it will double the endurance of any weak nervous run down person in ten days time or the price will be refunded The only stipulation is that all druggists shall sell it subject to this guarantee It is dispensed by druggists everywhere and especially by the Laughrey Drug Co and I C Moore

BLAST FURNACE PRODUCTION NOT UP TO ESTIMATE FOR MAY

Rate Was Only 40,900,000 Tons a Year; 43,000,000 Rate Was Anticipated.

MORE BY-PRODUCT OVENS

To Be Built By Independent Steel and Other Interests, Government to Finance Some of the Projects, Having Need for Still More By-Products

Special to The Weekly Courier

PITTSBURG June 12—The Carnegie Steel company has blown in an additional blast furnace at Duquesne giving it 55 stacks operating out of a total of 59. A stack at Clairton is about ready, and will be blown in within a few days leaving the company only three idle furnaces two at Edgar Thompson undergoing relining and the small detached Zanesville furnace which it is inefficient to operate when labor is so scarce. The blast furnaces generally are making out fairly well with their supplies of coke but there are few cases of there being any surplus and many cases of furnaces having less than normal reserves against even short interruptions to receipts. Pig iron production is barely up to the rate it should be in view of the number of furnaces in blast as there are few idle stacks and yet output is not as close to rated capacity as it should be. The reports indicate that the production in May was at the rate of about 40 900 000 tons a year while estimates of existing capacity based on actual performance of the furnaces in 1916 plus an allowance for the new stacks completed meanwhile would indicate that the country should be able to make 43 000 000 tons of pig iron a year perhaps a trifle more if there were only the normal proportion of stacks out for relining and all furnaces in blast were fully supplied with raw materials and labor. There is some complaint of labor shortage at this time but not a great deal. Furnaces near large centers of population in particular have experienced some labor shortage lately on account of there being jobs available near at hand involving outdoor work.

The coke market is a very quiet affair offerings being only of occasional odd lots as formerly and these running chiefly to foundry grades. Buyers are not very particular at this time and if the coke is 72 hour coke there is not a great deal of question as to how carefully it is selected although the government regulations are foundry coke 72 hour selected. There is of course always an ample proportion of coke that has been in ovens 72 hours Monday and Tuesday drawings being of that grade. There is no contracting going on operators expecting to have some surplus over their contracts already made showing a disposition to reserve it for spot or short period sales from time to time. The market remains quotable at the government limits

Furnace	$6 00
Foundry 72 hour selected	$[illegible] 0
Crushed over 1 inch	$[illegible]

Coke screenings from old dumps continue to find ready sale and bring as high as $6 50 when carefully prepared. It is held that under the government regulations such coke could be sold at as high as $[illegible] 30 if consumers were willing to pay the limit.

The Eastern Steel company has just contracted for the erection of [illegible] by-product ovens at its plant in the east while the Phillips Sheet & Tin Plate company has contracted for about 50 ovens in connection with the blast furnace it is about to build at Weirton W Va. These new items in connection with by-product coke oven building follow the Dorner Steel company contract for 60 ovens at Buffalo, Jones & Laughlin Steel company's [illegible] ovens in Pittsburg, the [illegible] 8 additional ovens at Clairton and the [illegible] oven [illegible] plant [illegible] W Va. [illegible] of these new [illegible] are financed by the government which desires the by-products for the manufacture of explosives.

The coal market is fairly active in a moderate supply of prompt coal offered usually at full prices. Large consumers are accumulating some stocks against the winter but this stocking is not proceeding as rapidly as is desired.

The pig iron market is extremely quiet as merchant furnaces are prohibited from shipping to regular customers against old orders unless it is shown that the pig iron is needed for war work or is embraced in the preference list of commercial consumers and in such circumstances fresh sales are practically out of the question unless against government work. The market remains quotable at the set limits as follows

Bessemer	$35 [illegible]
Basic	$3[illegible]
No 2 foundry	33 60
Malleable	$[illegible] 50
Gray forge	$[illegible] 00

These prices are f o b furnace freight from the Valley to Pittsburg being $1 10 since the advance from 95 cents May 22.

MULE DRIVING

Pays Better Than Preaching and Other Professional Work

A comparison of wages made by the Greensburg Tribune between professional men and men working in the mines shows that one of the leading ministers of Greensburg is receiving just about as much per diem as the mule drivers in the mines near the Westmoreland county town. The mule drivers have an advantage of a few cents a day.

This particular divine incidentally spent eight years in college three years in a theological seminary and took a post graduate course of one year to add to his equipment for the pulpit. The majority of the mule drivers don't know what a theological seminary is.

DRASTIC METHODS FOR SAVING COAL ARE BEING PLANNED

Non-Essential Industries Will Have Their Supply Greatly Reduced

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

At Least 60,000,000 Tons Must Be Saved It We Would Escape National Disaster, Says Administrator Garfield; Prospects for Trouble.

Faced with the dangers of another period of industrial idleness next winter unless drastic economies in the use of coal are immediately adopted Fuel Administrator Garfield has declared emphatically that something must be done during the summer months to make provision against the needs of winter.

A definite plan of conservation which would involve the curtailment of some less essential industries Dr Garfield feels is imperative to the national welfare with the wartime activities making extraordinary demands upon the coal production of the nation.

No definite order has been issued by Dr Garfield calling for further conservation by individual industries but he has made it plain that his intention was to carry out a program which would cause as little unrest as possible.

One of the industries which has been fighting against a drastic curtailment order it is said is that engaged in the manufacture of pleasure automobiles. The Fuel Administration has advocated a curtailment of [illegible] per cent in this direction and it has been intimated that drastic regulations would be forced not only by the inadequate coal supply but by a shortage in steel and other materials.

The hope was expressed that some agreement could be reached with the War Industries Board and other government agencies which could bring about an understanding in connection with this and other industries which would make it possible to effect a general curtailment on a basis which would not disrupt the financial and labor situation in any community. Dr Garfield believes further delay in the adoption of a comprehensive program would be reprehensible. In an official statement he said

A saving of 60 000 000 tons is the only possible avenue of escape from national disaster. Necessities of war must be supplied. The coal deficit must inevitably come out of the fuel for non-war industries.

Dr Garfield made it plain that in his opinion the conservation of at least 60 000 000 tons by two means the cutting down of the supplies of many less essential industries and economy of domestic consumers was the only course open to the government and that to longer avoid meeting this issue would be fatal.

Dr Garfield has already directed attention to the fact that at least 80 000 000 tons more of coal would be needed this year compared with last year in order to meet the demands of the war industries and the domestic consumer and permit the less essential industries to operate on anything like a normal basis. Production during the first five months of this year has shown an increase of but 10 000 000 tons over the same period last year.

It is known that the matter was the subject of consultation of a number of government officials last week including Dr Garfield, Vance McCormick chairman of the War Trade Board, Food Administrator Hoover and others and the situation has been serious enough to bring to the attention of the President.

It seems reasonably certain that one of two things may be expected shortly. Definite action along the lines of conservation or a flare up which will bring on a dispute over the question of less essentials which will demand the intervention of President Wilson.

In this connection it is known that a tentative list of industries which might be affected has been prepared by the Fuel Administration and that Dr Garfield is determined to support his convictions by action unless he is blocked by some one higher in authority.

A Coaling Record

The efficiency of the great coal pier of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Curtis Bay was again demonstrated last week when 5 000 tons of coal were loaded in the hold of a vessel in the remarkable short time of two hours and fifty minutes. This established a world's record for fast loading.

TENER TURNS EBBETS DOWN

National League Head Fails to Find Anything Against Stengel and Cutshaw of Pirates

True to his threat of some time ago President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club took Charles Stengel and George Cutshaw before President Tener of the National League.

However from what can be learned Mr Tener has informed the Superbas' [illegible] that there is nothing to [illegible] that [illegible] of the players [illegible] has [illegible] done anything that could by the widest stretch of imagination be construed into being an attack on the honor or integrity of Mr Ebbets.

The [illegible] was the result of the story written from Louisville recently in which the new Pirates took exception to certain statements alleged to have been made by Ebbets. Both Stengel and Cutshaw denied they had been trouble makers while with Brooklyn and in doing so they entered vigorous denials to statements alleged to have emanated from their ["]hillom cup over["]

Both Casey and George dared Ebbets to make good on certain things and this it is believed caused the Brooklyn owner to approach Mr Tener. However as [illegible] the league executive has declined to act since according to the best information obtainable that there is nothing for him to "act upon."

But to return to my experience while concealed in the house. After the visit of the soldiers, which left the house in a wretched condition I decided that I would continue my journey towards the frontier, particularly as I had gotten all I could out of Huyliger, or rather he had gotten all he was going to get out of me.

During my concealment in the house I had made various sorties into the city at night, and I was beginning to feel more comfortable even when German soldiers were about. Through the keyhole I had studied very closely the gait of the Belgians, the slovenly droop that characterized most of them, and their general appearance, and I felt that in my own dirty and unshaven condition I must have looked as much like the average poor Belgian as a man could. The only thing that was against me was my height. I was several inches taller than even the tallest Belgians. I had often thought that red hair would have gone good with my name, but now of course I was mighty glad that I was not so endowed, for red-haired Belgians are about as rare as German charity.

There are many, no doubt, who will wonder why I did not get more help than I did at this time. It is easily answered. When a man is in hourly fear of his life and the country is full of spies, as Belgium certainly was, he is not going to help just anyone that comes along seeking aid. One of the German's most successful ways of trapping the Belgians has been to pose as an English or French prisoner who has escaped, appeal to them for aid, implicate as many as possible, and then turn the whole German police force loose on them. As I look back on those days I think it remarkable that I received as much help as I did, but when people are starving under the conditions now forced upon those unfortunate people it is a great temptation to surrender these escaped prisoners to German authorities and receive the handsome rewards offered for them—or for alien spies, as I was classed at that time.

The passport which I had described me as a Spanish sailor but I was very dubious about its value. If I could have spoken Spanish fluently it might have been worth something to me but the few words I knew of the language would not have carried me very far if I had been confronted with a Spanish interpreter. I decided to use the passport only as a last resort preferring to act the part of a deaf and dumb Belgian peasant as far as it would carry me.

Before I finally left the house I had a remarkable experience which I shall remember as long as I live.

CHAPTER XIV

A Night of Dissipation

During the first two days I spent with Huyliger after I had first arrived in the big city he had told me among other things of a moving picture show in town which he said I might have a chance to see while there.

"It is free every night in the week except Saturdays and Sundays," he said, "and once you are inside you would not be apt to be bothered by anyone except when they come to take your order for something to drink. While there is no admission patrons are expected to eat or drink while enjoying the pictures."

A day or two later while walking the streets at night in search for food I had passed this place and was very much tempted to go in and spend a few hours particularly as it would perhaps give me an opportunity to buy something to eat, although I was at a loss to know how I was going to ask for what I wanted.

While trying to make up my mind whether it was safe for me to go in I walked half a block past the place and when I turned back again and reached the entrance with my mind made up that I would take the chance I ran full tilt into a German officer who was just coming out.

That settled all my hankerings for moving pictures that night. "Where you came from, my friend," I figured, "there must be more like you! I guess it is a good night for walking."

The next day however in recalling the incident of the evening before, it seemed to me that I had been rather foolish. What I needed more than anything else at that time was confidence. Before I could get to the frontier I would have to confront German soldiers many times because there were more of them between this city and Holland than in any section of the country through which I had so far traveled. Safety in these confing encies would depend largely upon the calmness I displayed. It wouldn't do to get all excited at the mere sight of a spiked helmet. The Belgians, I had noticed, while careful to obey the orders of the Huns showed no particular fear of them and it seemed to me the sooner I cultivated the same feeling of indifference the better I would be able to carry off the part I was playing.

For this reason I made up my mind then and there that officers or no officers I would go to that show that night and sit it through no matter what happened. While people may think that I had decided unwisely because of the unnecessary risk involved in the adventure it occurred to me that perhaps after all that theater was about one of the safest places I could attend because that was about the last place Germans would expect to find a fugitive English officer in even if they were searching for me.

As soon as evening came therefore I started out for the theatre. I fixed myself up as well as possible. I had on a fairly decent pair of pants which Huyliger had given me and I used a clean handkerchief as a collar.

With my hair brushed up and my beard trimmed as neatly as possible with a pair of rusty scissors which I had found in the house while my appearance was not exactly that of a Beau Brummel I don't think I looked much worse than the average Belgian. In these days the average Belgian is very poorly dressed at best.

I can't say I had no misgivings as I made my way to the theatre. Certainly I was going there more for discipline than pleasure but I had made up my mind that I was going there to see it through.

The entrance to the theatre or beer garden, for it was as much one as the other was on the side of the building and was reached by way of an alley which ran alongside. Near the door was a ticket seller's booth but as this was one of the free nights there was no one in the booth.

I marched slowly down the alley imitating as best I could the indifferent gait of the Belgians and when I entered the theater endeavored to act as though I had been there many times before. A hasty survey of the interior of the place was sufficient to enable me to select my seat. It was early and there were not more than half a dozen people in the place at that time so that I had my choice.

There was a raised platform perhaps two feet high all around the walls of the place except at the end where the stage was located. On this platform tables were arranged and there were tables on the floor proper as well.

I decided promptly that the safest place for me was as far as possible where I would not be in the line of vision of others in back of me. Accordingly I slouched over to a table on the platform directly opposite the stage and I took the seat against the wall. The whole place was now in front of me. I could see everything that was going on and everyone who came in but no one except those who sat at my own table would notice me unless they deliberately turned around to look.

The place began to fill up rapidly. Every second person who came in the place seemed to me to be a German soldier but when they were seated at the tables and I got a chance later on to make a rough count I found that in all there were not more than a hundred soldiers in the place and there must have been several hundred civilians.

The first people to sit at my table were a Belgian and his wife. The Belgian sat next to me and his wife next to him. I was hoping that other civilians would occupy the remaining two seats at my table because I did not relish the idea of having to sit through the show with German soldiers within a few feet of me. That would certainly have spoiled my pleasure for the evening.

Every [illegible] that came in the door gave me [illegible] until I was sure it [illegible] my direction. I don't suppose there was a single soldier who came in the door whom I didn't follow to his seat with my eyes.

But before they lowered the lights two German officers entered. They stood at the door for a moment looking the place over. Then they made a beeline in my direction and I must confess my heart started to beat a little faster. I [illegible] that they would find [illegible] my vicinity [illegible] getting nearer and nearer [illegible] that they were headed [illegible] for the two seats at my table and that was indeed the case.

These two seats were in front of the table [illegible] the officers [illegible] did [illegible] position [illegible] I could [illegible] one of the [illegible]. It would have been more than [illegible]. I am afraid if I could have [illegible] it safely.

As the officers seated themselves, a waiter came to us with a printed bill of fare and program. Fortunately the waiter [illegible] the officers first and I listened intently to their orders. The officers ordered some light wine but my Belgian neighbor ordered Bock for himself and his wife which was what I had decided to order anyway as that was the only thing I could say. Heaven knows I would far rather have ordered something to eat and I was afraid to take a chance at the pronunciation of the dishes it set forth.

There were a number of drinks listed which I might safely enough have ordered. For instance I noticed "Lemon Squash 1.50," "Ginger Beer 1—," "Sparkling Dry Ginger Ale 1—," "Appolinaris 1—," and "Schweppes Soda 0.80," but it occurred to me that the mere fact that I selected something that was listed in English might attract attention to me and something in my pronunciation might give further cause for suspicion.

It seemed better to parrot the Belgian and order "Bock" and that was what I decided to do.

One item on the bill of fare tantalized me considerably. Although it was listed among the [illegible] prices of drinks it sounded very much to me like something to eat and Heaven knows I would rather have had one mouthful of food than all the drinks in the world. The item I refer to is "Dubbel Gerstein de Fleesch (Lichaur)." A double portion of anything would have been mighty welcome to me but I would have been content with a single portion if I had only had the courage to ask for it.

To keep myself as composed as possible I devoted a lot of attention to that bill of fare and I had by the time the waiter came [illegible] I almost knew it by heart [illegible] German officer [illegible] drink [illegible].

When the [illegible] I still [illegible] that part of [illegible].

While [illegible] I had [illegible] bill of fare [illegible] received [illegible] order cost 50 centimes. The smallest charge I had [illegible] bill.

[illegible] the German officers were [illegible] fairly [illegible] offered their bill [illegible] back to them with [illegible] which I [illegible].

[illegible] there was in [illegible]. To offer [illegible] bill [illegible] officers [illegible] change would [illegible] and yet I could not explain to him that [illegible] was in [illegible] and [illegible] have to [illegible] only thing to do [illegible] the German [illegible] to the officers perhaps [illegible]. Later [illegible] returned to the table with a handful of change [illegible] the transaction. I gave him [illegible] centime as a tip—I had never [illegible] to a place where it was necessary to talk to [illegible].

During the first half hour in that theatre [illegible] I was [illegible] and [illegible] to express my feelings [illegible]. The truth of the matter is I was never so uneasy in my life. Every minute seemed like an hour and a dozen times I was on the point of getting up and leaving. There [illegible] too many soldiers in the place to suit me and when the German officers seated themselves right at my table I thought that was about all I could stand. As it was however the lights went out shortly afterwards and in the dark I felt considerably easier.

After the first picture when the lights went up again I had regained my composure considerably and I took advantage of the opportunity to study the various types of people in the place.

From my seat I had a splendid chance to see them all. At one table there was a German [illegible] corps officer with three Red Cross nurses. This was the only time I had ever seen German nurses for while I was in the hospital I had [illegible]. Nurses [illegible] near the first line trenches.

The German soldiers [illegible] tables were very quiet [illegible] drank beer [illegible] among themselves but [illegible] hilarity [illegible].

As I sat there [illegible] those German officers [illegible] what they would [illegible] what a chance they [illegible] escaped British officer [illegible] smiling [illegible] thought of the [illegible].

Nevertheless the [illegible].

I had passed a night which I shall [illegible] in my life [illegible] bill of fare and program [illegible] the attraction which was to be presented the following week which was handed to us as I came out. I still [illegible] they are among the [illegible] valued souvenirs [illegible].

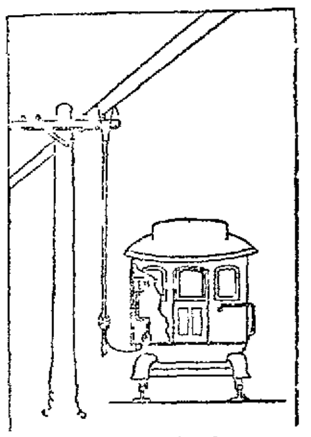
CARRY TELEPHONE ON TRAIN

Simple Method by Which Wires on Car Are Connected With Those Along the Track.

At first thought the announcement that a Canadian has invented a telephone for use on trains seems marvelous but it is really quite simple. The circuit wires of the phone on the train are fastened to a shaft which has a pair of hooked wires at the top. These are thrown over the main line wires that run alongside the railroad.



Must Stop to Use Phone

track [illegible] same way as [illegible] roads get their power from the feed wire. The trolleys [illegible] use a similar shaft. Of course the train telephone cannot be used while the train is in motion so it is not [illegible] feasible for general use on passenger trains but for emergency use [illegible] cars [illegible] officials of the road [illegible] to speak to distant points it is very convenient.

Rat Halts Seven Trains.

Three passenger express trains and four fast freight trains were held up by a rat for considerably over half an hour on the Pennsylvania main line at Moore's Station, Pa., between Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia. The rodent had eaten the insulation off a large cable containing wires that are an important factor in the operation of electric signals. This caused a grounding of the wires with the result that the signals were put out of balance.

The trouble was first discovered by the engineer of an express train. The signal at Moore gave him a clear indication whereas he knew another train was but a short distance ahead. Rather than take chances he stopped the train. Then other signals at that place began to act queerly. An attache known as a signal maintainer stationed at a nearby interlocking tower began a hurried investigation as other trains arrived and were held up.

Matters were becoming serious, the entire [illegible] being affected until the trouble was discovered. The insulation had been eaten off for fully five [illegible]. The difficulty was remedied [illegible].

GOVERNMENT INQUIRY IS BEING MADE INTO COKE REGION LABOR

Authorities Want to Know Why Men Lay-Off When Mood Seizes Them.

LARGER OUTPUT PER MAN

Is Sought in Order to Speed Up Production, How to Be Accomplished is Not Announced But Believed Some Effective Plan Will Be Worked Out.

For the first time in the history of the Connellsville coke region a systematic inquiry is being made into the causes underlying the indifference of the workmen to make full time. Believing that there are removable reasons for the persistence in the habit of taking lay-off days whenever the mood seizes the men, the authorities at Washington charged with the special duty of speeding up all industrial activities upon which the successful prosecution of the war depends have been making a careful investigation into conditions in the region to ascertain why the output of coal and coke per man employed is not greater than has been for many months past.

The details of this investigation have not been made public nor has there been any revelation of the facts discovered during its progress. The purpose of it, however, has not been concealed. Simply stated the government authorities want to know why so many miners and coke workers lay off without apparent excuse for their idleness as well as to learn what are the causes for the development of this pernicious habit.

The investigation is not being made out of idle curiosity, but for a real and definite purpose. That purpose is to bring about an increase in the output per man of both coal and coke. How this is to be accomplished has not been announced, not even hinted at. In fact, but from the care with which the government authorities have recently taken in informing themselves of conditions in the various industries before applying any correctives to unsatisfactory features, it is reasonable to assume that the measure eventually to be adopted will be effective.

None will more gladly welcome a solution of this vexatious problem than the operators of the Connellsville region. Whatever form the method of solving it may be given the operators will be found to lend prompt and willing cooperation. That is but another way of stating the fact that their attitude on all regulatory measures has been that of a readiness to do their best and their utmost to accomplish the purposes designed. In this connection it may be noted that closer working together of the governmental agencies having charge of war time production, distribution and transportation is observable. With more definite knowledge of conditions affecting these important factors there has come a better understanding and more efficient methods. In the coke region the only break in the chain is the labor situation. Now that careful inquiry into the cause of its slackness, as the operators count slackness, has been made the hope is not wholly vain that it too will respond to the now universal demand that every industry and everybody contribute every ounce of their strength and energy to make winning the war the chief business of our country.

Last week was wholly without features of interest in the coke trade. Operation ran along without interruption, making a slight general gain on the whole. The car situation remained satisfactory and there was somewhat less complaint about labor supply, although yard labor was only slightly more plentiful or more industrious than it has been since the warm weather made its appearance.

Estimated production for the week ending Saturday, June 8, was practically the same as over during the previous week but number of active ovens having been reduced by 15 there was a decrease of about [illegible] tons to a total of 341,120 tons. This change which was largely in the furnace plants brought furnace oven production to 203,6[illegible] tons and merchant oven production to 13[illegible]36 tons, and the Connellsville region to 17[illegible]2 tons and the lower Connellsville region to 161,348 tons, a decrease in the former of 5,028 tons and an increase of 2,028 tons in the latter or a net decrease for the region of 2,000 tons.

The demand for by-product coal is becoming heavier and more insistent, but the ability to supply it has the same limiting factor as has the increased production of coke. The near approach of a larger by-product coke production creates no concern in the coke region other than apprehension lest the growth in demand for by-product coal may be greater than can be supplied with the present complement of working forces.

Connellsville coal will be needed in larger quantity and the mines of the region will be ready to supply it from plants whose ovens have served long terms of usefulness as producers of that coke which even the by-product plants have long sought to equal in quality as the standard metallurgical fuel.

COKE TRADE SUMMARY

Convinced that the causes underlying the persistent habit of the miners and coke workers to take lay off days whenever the mood seizes them are removable, the authorities at Washington charged with the duty of speeding up industry so as to insure the winning of the war have been making a careful investigation into conditions in the region. The avowed purpose is to ascertain why this is done, with a view to applying correctives in such form as will increase the output per man per day.

The operators will gladly welcome any solution of the vexatious problem [illegible] as on all [illegible] measures [illegible] the production, distribution and transportation of coal and coke are [illegible] to the [illegible] that they can. No announcement has been made of the exact [illegible] revealed by this investigation [illegible] of the methods to be used in affecting a remedy, but from the care with which the government agencies have recently been acquiring information before issuing regulatory edicts it is safe to assume that whatever is determined upon will prove effective.

Operating conditions as a whole are without change. The car supply continues satisfactory. Labor is practically the same as last week with possibly a slight improvement in the application of the yard forces. The blowing out of a few ovens, mostly furnace, cut down total production for the past week [illegible] tons but the average per active oven was unchanged.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF STEEL NOW STRICTLY DEFINED BY WAR BOARD

Government Orders Have First Call, Others to Come in the Order Given in the Preference List.

Special to The Courier.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

By resolutions the War Industries Board adopted June 6 the methods of distribution of all pig iron and steel products are strictly defined. The actual distribution is not essentially different from that in effect since about May 1, arising from the 100 per cent pledge the iron and steel industry took as a result of the New York meeting of April 26, but the preference purposes are defined by the board in detail.

The distribution of pig iron and steel products is now as follows: Government orders have the first call, this including Class A and Class B orders and certain other descriptions of material; second call is by the preferred classes of consumption, including food, fuel and clothing, while what may remain falls into a third category and can go to the general trade but only upon approval in writing of the director of steel supplies first had been obtained. The second category represents the more essential commercial consumption, described precisely as the schedule of purpose entitled to preference treatment or more briefly the preference list. The list is rather comprehensive and while it omits many purposes that in ordinary times consume a great deal of steel the majority of these purposes are not much in evidence at present. The building trades are not represented except as they serve war industries, but the building trades are now quiescent except in that one direction.

There is general satisfaction in the iron and steel industry that the War Industries Board has left the details of its business conduct to its own regulation, while at the same time a clear course is mapped out in general terms for the distribution of steel. There is practically no uncertainty as to how the instructions are to be carried out. Some consumers may now receive more preference than they have obtained in the past few weeks.

Production of pig iron and steel continues at a rate the output is roughly speaking, about 95 per cent of the tonnage possible with existing equipment under the most favorable weather and labor conditions.

RAILROAD WAGE BOARD

Organized and Now Ready to Act Upon Matters Under Its Jurisdiction.

The board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions has been organized as follows:

G. H. Sines, chairman; F. F. Gaines, vice chairman; J. J. Dermody, C. L. Lindsay, W. F. Morse, A. O. Wharton.

It shall be the duty of the board to hear and investigate matters presented by railroad employes or their representatives affecting:

(1) Inequalities as to wages and working conditions whether as to individual employes or classes of employes.

(2) Conditions arising from competition with employes in other industries.

(3) Rules and working conditions for the several classes of employes either for the country as a whole or for different parts of the country.

The board shall also hear and investigate complaints as to wages and conditions of employment referred to it by the director general. The authority of the board is limited to making recommendations to the director general for his determination.

THE PARAMOUNT.

VENGEANCE.—A five part World feature in which Montague Love is seen in the leading role, supported by Barbara Castleton, Wade Evans, George MacQuarrie and other stars of prominence, is being shown today. The story of "Vengeance" starts 23 years ago in London. It switches to India at about the same period, then becomes a story of the present day. Montague Love is first seen as John Cuddlestone, a young British army officer who through the deviltry of his brother is kicked out of his home. John goes to India and there marries an Indian woman. A son is born to the couple. When the father dies the mother follows the Indian custom and meets death in the blaze of his funeral pyre. The son is given into the care of the priests in the temple of Buddha. The lad grows to manhood and Montague Love is then seen in the role of youthful John Cuddlestone. The Weekly Review is also being shown. Tomorrow Mabel Normand will be seen in "The Floor Below." Monday and Tuesday "The Unbeliever," an Edison feature, will be the attraction.

SOCIAL BRIARS.—Features Mary Miles Minter as Iris Lee. Suppose you were a pretty girl with a graceful figure and a wonderful voice and a long haired country Sunday school superintendent wanted to wed you and become one of the village gossips and suppose there was a way you could escape such a fate even though it lay over the rocky road to Broadway? Be sure what Iris did do at this theatre today. Friday and Saturday Elsie Ferguson appears in "The Rise of Jennie Cushing."

THE ARCADE.

The Charming Widow company is one of the best shows that has been at the Arcade in a long time. This company is far different from the usual tabloid show as each member of the company is a real artist and has something to do besides look pretty. "Hen Pecked Henry" pleased the large crowds the first two days and Mr. Elwood Harrison says that the new bill, "Love's Dream," is even as good as "Hen Pecked Henry." Mr. Cray doing blackface is in a class by himself when it comes to making people laugh. It's a treat to see a show different from the usual tab show run. This company also carries three vaudeville acts that are a show in themselves. The chorus with this company is a good one, each girl being a real chorus girl, and the scenery is without a doubt beautiful. So far the lovers of good clean miniature musical comedy will make no mistake in seeing this show this week.

On the screen will be that famous screen star Hedda Nova and Frank Glendon in "The Woman in the Web," an up-to-the-minute photo play on the present war with Germany.

THE SOISSON.

Jack Roof's Pretty Babies at the Soisson last night pleased an immense big house with the pretty musical comedy "Madam Excuse Me." It is one of the best laugh producing shows Connellsville has had in a long time as all of the comedy is original. It has so many funny situations that it is hard to pick out the best, but Joe Fields and Gus Hoff kept the audience in a gale of laughter for 20 minutes with their burlesque mind reading act and when they left the stage there was a perfect hurricane of applause. Diminutive Dot Rex in her song "One Little Girl" fairly carried her audience away with her. Frank Ernest's number "Hawaiian Tunes in Dixie" and Helen Gripp's novelty song "From Here to Shanghai" each got much applause. Joe Fields with his "Banana Son" proved an instant success. The finale is a beautiful tableau, Miss Maitland singing "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There." The bill for Friday and Saturday is "Coburn's Cabaret."

But a bit of dainty lace or embroidery is used in such a skillful and delightful manner that it never overshadows the complete effect.

Still Good Blouses at $1 and $2

The splendid Wirthmor and Welworth Blouses which Connellsville women know so well are still $1.00 and $2.00 respectively and still come to us every week or so in sanitary dust proof wrappings. That they ARE popular is best shown by the way women inquire about and await each new shipment. Recent arrivals are here in plain white and colors in a complete range of sizes.

Other Lingerie Blouses, Many Styles, $2.50 to $19.75

It has remained for this store to bring to Connellsville an assortment of new lingerie blouses such as is seldom seen. Styles that can be purchased again and again—the continual best of the successful Summer blouse. New models galore—in organdy, dainty washable silks, voiles and other suitable materials in white, flesh and a number of pretty colored effects. All sizes. Those at the moderate prices are exceptional.

Elegant Silk Blouses $3.95 to $25

Crepes de chine of course and georgettes—oh, such pretty georgettes—the finest, filmiest, altogether charming blouses we have seen for many a week. They come in white and flesh and a range of styles and shades that permit you to match up with any color scheme. All sizes are here. The values at $5.95 are decidedly special—the styles very new. See these today.

35c Printed Voiles Keep Right on Being Popular

They are very nearly if not quite the best choice a woman can make for her inexpensive summer dress.

Something over and above 50 styles and such pretty ones as they are—plaids, checks, figures, dots and flowered designs—in dark or light colors.

All are 36 inches wide and at 35c they are particularly unusual values just now.

New 35c Ginghams In Fashionable Large Plaids

And every woman seems to want these bright attractive plaids to use for morning frocks and children's school dresses.

These were ordered some time since and are a bit late in arriving but they are none the less welcome for that.

The width is 32 inches and the price 35c recommends their purchase for every possible use.
